Adjustable display

The Gigaset DA710's hinged alphanumerical display lets you adjust it to the angle most comfortable for you and allows you to check the time, date and call duration at any time.

Headset or handsfree

For flexible talking, either use the handsfree function or attach an RJ9 compatible headset via the headset socket.

Polyphonic sound

You have the choice of 16 melodies and 4 volumes to alert you to incoming calls. Of course, you can always turn the ringer off when you don't want to be disturbed, and be alerted to incoming calls through visual call indication.

Quick contact

Need to quickly get in touch with a recently dialled contact? Simply use the last number redial function to get in contact with up to 5 of your last dialled numbers. If you need to go further back, it also stores a list of the last 50 calls. The call blocking function lets you block certain outgoing calls such as costly toll numbers.

Quick navigation

With its 4-way navi key, navigating through the Gigaset DA710's menu is very straightforward. Setup and installation are also quick and easy. It's Pabx and PSTN compatible, allowing you to either connect straight to the fixed line network, or use it as part of an internal network of phones within your office or at home.
